Q&A Transcript – Webinar 3 – Learning Management at Its Prime

Question: Is closed captions an option for ADA compliance?

Answer: Adobe Captivate has the ability to create your own CC to comply to ADA

Question: Is the text on the slides and questions accessible using screen readers?

Answer: Realistically, if you are concerned about file size than yes it would be ideal to break up the video into segments than upload to Captivate Prime, however if would like fluidity in your course than insert the Knowledge Check within the video so there is a seamless transition. When creating the Captivate project accessibility can be added, which in turn also becomes support when uploading to Captivate Prime 'https://helpx.adobe.com/in/captivate-prime/accessibility-captivate-prime.html'

Question: If you have a video that is 1 hr long and you are adding knowledge checks, is it better to edit the video into segments to add to Captivate then add the knowledge questions and then the next Captivate slide start with the next video segment - or just add the breaks into the video with the knowledge checks? I am asking mostly for download / upload purposes.

Question: Would this system be an alternative to Blackboard?

Answer: Similar in the sense of Blackboard but geared more towards the enterprise side of training and certifications

Question: Will Captivate Prime interface with another LMS? Can it populate the other system with trainings completed through Captivate Prime?

Answer: Captivate Prime can work hand in hand with other e-learning connectors
