GEOPOLITICAL INTELLIGENCE

Understanding Cross-Cultural Risks and Opportunities

WHAT WE DO

TextOre's analysts apply their blend of foreign language skills, regional and thematic subject matter expertise, and geopolitical awareness to a range of open-source intelligence (OSINT) research and analytical endeavors. TextOre's experience spans East Asia, Eastern Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and Latin America. We locate and synthesize original source information on governmental and political entities, political and civil society leaders, research institutes, university programs, criminal enterprises, and other actors and entities impacting our national security.

CORE SERVICES

Full-spectrum Landscape Assessment

We deliver "know before you go" reports, profiling key players and summarizing the roles and influence of local agencies and organizations.

Dis- and Misinformation Campaigns

Combining advanced data tools with expert analysis, we trace the origins, narratives, audiences, and impact of global information operations.

Supporting Democratic Resilience

We conduct deep-dive case studies and evaluations of foreign interference, regulatory issues, and human rights challenges across the globe.

Malign Influence and United Front

We analyze how malign actors manipulate information environments and coopt local groups —focusing on networks like the Chinese Communist Party's United Front.

Local/Regional Knowledge Formation

We fuse staff insights, media, and social content to create clear, actionable briefs for on-the-ground operations and long-term planning.
