The mobile app created to assist and guide clients through treatment court and on to better outcomes.

What does it do?

It helps treatment court & case managers:

- Provides officers better insight into client behavior
- Ensures participants are going to scheduled appointments
- Reduces/automates time intensive administrative functions
- Focus limited resources on most as-risk individuals
- Officers can access from anywhere - cloud based

It helps participants:

- Provide appointment reminders and directions
- Access to assistive services
- Receive focused attention and help when most needed
- Provides structure
- Protects due process right; app is alternative to incarceration in some cases

Rather than observe the behavior and compliance of relatively few individuals, the RePath mobile app identifies behavioral variations and anomalies in very large numbers of participants. The app has multiple levels that may be engaged based on risk. At a very basic level, it is assistive with reminders and communication with officers, (chat, text, video chat, group chat/text) all housed in one platform. At higher levels of risk, background monitoring, biometric check-ins, exclusion and inclusion zones are administered through the participant's smart phone. The app utilizes enhanced monitoring, data analytics and behavioral knowledge to assist participants in real-time. The cost of our solution is 1/100th of incarceration and 1/10th traditional monitoring solutions. Best of all, the business model based upon the application being free to participants to eliminate financial hurdles that inhibit people from receiving the attention and help they need.
