Bridges are more than structures – they are symbols of progress, pushing the boundary to move us forward.

Like bridges, we at Chainbridge Solutions believe in pushing boundaries. We understand that innovation requires courage. We're committed to nurturing imagination, taking calculated risks, and connecting people to possibilities.

Our Mission

Behind every mission is a person, and our work is about people. At Chainbridge Solutions, our mission centers on helping the government work smarter to ensure the protection and well-being of individuals and organizations.

Our History

Chainbridge Solutions embodies a profound commitment to helping people, rooted in our founder's deeply personal journey. Our organization was formed in 2010 by Aarti Smith, a Virginia Tech graduate deeply affected by the tragic events of April 16, 2007. Driven by the desire to prevent such tragedies from happening in the future, Aarti founded Chainbridge Solutions with people in mind.

Over the past decade, we expanded this dedication and purpose for security into other areas of the federal government that too are impacted by human vulnerabilities and risk, growing into who we are today – an application transformation company specializing in solutions for workforce security, workplace modernization and workflow automation.

"In every aspect of our business, we are working to push the envelope. The way we hire, the solutions we deliver, the technology we use, the culture we create."

Our People

Our passion for this work is driven from our people, who make up the heartbeat of Chainbridge Solutions. We are comprised of over 100 smart and talented individuals who think differently about applications and push the needle on what's possible.

Our team has become more than colleagues, we are a community. We celebrate successes together, support one another through challenges, and foster a culture of inclusivity and respect. Our diverse workforce, with nearly equal female representation, fosters collaboration, shared perspectives, innovation, and camaraderie.

Dedicated R&D Team

Chainbridge's Innovation Group was born out of a desire to problem-solve and prototype alongside our customers. This dedicated team of experts identify customer needs as they arise, experiment with emerging technologies, and develop new leading-edge solutions that can be quickly applied to our customers' use cases.

Workforce Development Initiative

Our workforce development initiative, Bridge Academy, fosters internships in technology. The Academy, open to individuals with varying levels of experience, provides curated curriculums to develop skills as Developers, Business Analysts, and QA Engineers, and gain employment directly at Chainbridge Solutions or other technology firms and partners.

“We help customers enhance user experiences and improve their operations by showing them what is possible.”

REIMAGINE WORK

Industry and Community Partners

We have formed meaningful partnerships to grow our impact – advocating for initiatives that move our mission, industry, and communities forward.

Across industry, we've partnered with CGI, participating in the All Small Business Mentor-Protégé Program. We are also actively involved in the Justice, Equity, Diversity, and Intelligence Council at Intelligence and National Security Alliance. Additional organizations we support are Women in Technology, Girls in Technology, and STEM for Her – supporting through mentorship and advocacy to empower the growth of women in technical fields and advocate for gender equality.

Locally, our team works with Fairfax County Public Schools' Secondary Transition to Employment Program (STEP). This program provides students aged 18-22 with disabilities employment training in professional settings. We also engage in initiatives across our communities, such as volunteering for the Northern Virginia Family Service organization, participating in fundraising activities, and sponsoring families and children.
