A simple tool that helps officers create better outcomes in Juvenile Justice

Free Up More Time to Deliver the Services who Need Them Most.

The mobile app developed to assist and guide youth through the juvenile justice system and on to better outcomes.

RePath is a mobile application that's primary goal is to help officers communicate and engage young people on a platform that is comfortable and familiar to youth. Rather than observe the behavior and compliance of relatively few individuals, the RePath mobile app identifies behavioral variations and anomalies in very large numbers of juvenile participants. The app has multiple levels that may be engaged based on risk. At a very basic level, it is assistive with reminders and communication with officers, (chat, text, video chat, group chat/text) all housed in one platform. Communicate information that is helpful such as job fairs, skills development courses or other assistive resources. At higher levels of risk, background monitoring, biometric check-ins, exclusion and inclusion zones are administered through the participant's smart phone. The app utilizes enhanced monitoring, data analytics and behavioral knowledge to assist participants in real-time.

The cost of our solution is 1/100th of incarceration and 1/10th traditional monitoring solutions without the stigma of a wearable appliance. Best of all, the business model based upon the application being free to participants to eliminate financial hurdles that inhibit people from receiving the attention and help they need.

How we help juveniles:

- Provide appointment reminders/directions
- Access to assistive services
- Receive attention and help when most needed
- Assist with compliance
- Less friction, less disruptive

How we help officers:

- Provide officers better insight into behavior
- Improve accountability, compliance, and communication
- Reduce/automate time intensive administrative functions
- Quickly identify and focus limited resources on most at-risk individuals
- Secondary notifications can be added for parents or guardians for truancy or exclusion zone violations
