

The next brilliant idea begins in the cloud - Education is all about the transmission of information. Giving students access to the information they need – and enabling the free flow of ideas between campuses, faculty, and researchers – is the promise of digital transformation. That's where Cloud Content Management comes in. With Box, you have a single place for everyone to collaborate, share and learn – while you manage and secure access to content. And by integrating seamlessly with the apps you already know and love, Box provides a single, secure content layer so you can quickly graduate to the digital campus.

Key contacts

- David Hirt, Regional Director | (303) 475-0273
- Whitney Cupples, Account Executive | (731) 435-0341
- Chris Hunt, Account Executive | (737) 465-9333
- Bobby Johnson, Account Executive | (509) 869-5821
- Jordan Nischan, Account Executive | (602) 550-5822

Company overview: Simplify how you work. Secure collaboration with anyone, anywhere, on any device.

Summary: Box (NYSE:BOX) is the leading Content Cloud, a single platform that empowers organizations to manage the content lifecycle, work securely from anywhere, and integrate across best-of-breed apps. Founded in 2005, Box simplifies work for leading global organizations, including Cornell, Yale, and University of California, Berkeley. Visit box.com to learn more.

Relevant topics:

- Data security
- Collaboration
- Simplified workflow
- 1,500 app integrations including Salesforce
- Native e-signature
- Cloud computing and services
- Content management
- Document management
- Security risk management
- Storage